

SEIZED ON ROOF AS POLICE CORDON SURROUNDS BLOCK

One Alleged Burglar Captured While Another Man Escapes.

Scores of persons attracted by policemen surrounded the block between Third and Lexington Avenues from 124th to 125th Streets early to-day witnessed the capture at the point of revolvers of an alleged burglar on the roof of the building at No. 182 East 125th Street. The man described himself as James Boyle, twenty-one, railroad gateman, No. 2129 Lexington Avenue. He was locked up charged with attempted burglary.

Residents in the neighborhood saw several men walking on the roof of the building which is occupied by the Strand Clothing Company. A few moments later a man telephoned East 126th Street station that burglars were working on the roof and a squad of reserves was sent to the building. Policemen formed a cordon around the block.

Patrolmen Hunter and Grundy, with revolvers drawn, made their way to the roof by the fire escape, where Hunter caught sight of a man crouched against the skylight. A flashlight revealed Boyle, according to the police.

At Hunter's command Boyle, the police say, arose with his hands raised over his head. At the same moment another man was seen fleeing over the roof toward Third Avenue. He escaped. According to the police the skylight near which Boyle was found had been broken open.

When a Japanese Goes a-Courting, He Never Exaggerates His Own Qualities--

On the contrary, he actually humbles and abases and demeans himself. When he wins a wife under these conditions her surprise is so great and so joyful that she loves him more than ever.

Apply this to Furniture Sales--to the August Sales going on--

Read the advertisements.

Then visit the stores, inspect the quality and design of the furniture, and examine into the values offered.

Check up the advertisement with "the goods."

Draw your own conclusions.

You are almost sure to find that where there is the greatest boasting there will be the least merit—as Mr. Wanamaker says to-day in his "little piece" in the upper left hand corner of this page:—"the disposition is to overstate and color statements apparently to increase the interest in the information being given."

We are constantly told that Wanamaker advertising is not strong enough, not bold enough, not daring enough.

Now you know why.

Now you know why so many people when they come in response to a Wanamaker advertisement say "Why, this is better than I expected"—like the Japanese wife.

All that really need be said about the August furniture sale is:

1. It is now going on.
2. It offers our entire stock of furniture, totaling with the special August purchases, well over a million and a half dollars. All of it quality furniture, Wanamaker standard furniture.
3. It offers this furniture at reductions of 10 to 50 per cent., the average being a third.
4. The August prices are the lowest at which furniture has been sold for seven years.
5. Belmison reproduction furniture on the fourth gallery and our entire stock of office furniture on the seventh gallery are both included in the sale.

Exaggeration Is a Second Cousin to Falsehood

It may be safely said that the disposition of a large number of people is to overstate and color statements in conversation, not with evil intent, but apparently to increase the interest in the information being given.

Almost all large enterprises, accidents, hazards, events are magnified upon their first narration.

To be strictly accurate in conveying facts in word or printed statement is a habit worthy of cultivation in these days.
